16 Students Sent To Tallahassee

A group of sixteen Belle Glade High School students left Wednesday for Tallahassee where they were hosted by the Senators and Representatives representing Palm Beach County. The group returned Friday night.

The group met the Governor, were introduced to both the Senate and House as the first group of high school students from Palm Beach County during this legislative session.

The students were selected for their interest in Social Studies by their teachers. They attended, while in the capitol, legislative sessions as well as a Appropriation Committee meeting.

The observations were nice, the group said, but most informative was the dinner hosted by the Palm Beach County Representatives. The five representatives attending were spread out among the 14 students and questions and answers flew.

In Tallahassee the students also toured the Sheriff's Bureau, State Department and the Florida State University Campus.

Principal Pelton Morris and Ed Browning accompanied the group.

Recreation Planned For Lake

The Jacksonville District Corps of Engineers has designated 29 recreation sites, 17 of which will require $50-50 funds for developments, half from the federal government, half from local interest. At the other sites the Corps of Engineers has already expended funds for recreational purposes and now can fully develop the sites at 100% federal cost.

Sites not shown on this map are located on the Caloosahatchee River and the St. Lucie Canal.

Of the 19 sites on Lake Okeechobee, nine are "old sites," that is, can be developed at 100% federal expense, and the other ten are "new sites" and if developed, must be developed with 50% local funds.

Included in the 50% local funds, the Corps of Engineers said, can be the cost of the land. In many instances this would involve no actual expense because the land is state owned and can simply be turned over for recreational purposes at no cost, but the local interest would still receive credit for the value of the land towards their 50%.

NCC-FCMM Meeting Was Indecisive

The afternoon session of the meeting between Community leaders, the National Council of Churches and representatives from the Florida Migrant Ministry lasted from about 1:30 until 4 p. m.

The session was filled with allegations, counter-allegations and a general airing of feelings.

As one visiting minister put it, "Both sides were talking, but was either side hearing?"

However, representatives of all groups seem satisfied with the meeting as a first step to, perhaps, greater understanding and cooperation.

A. T. French, consultant with Management Research Inc., presented documentation of church involvement with unionizing farm labor in California, Texas and Florida. This was the core of the meeting with local farmers objecting to church involvement in unionizing activities.

Representatives of both the National Council of Churches and the Florida Christian Migrant Ministry, emphasized they only wanted to aid in the self direction of farm workers, rather than to support unionism as a goal.

THOUGHT OF THE WEEK

Every man's task is his life-preserver—G. B. Emerson.

Friends Pay Tribute To Rev. Boland

He was loved.
A simple statement, but how does one express it?

This was a problem faced by the people of Belle Glade who knew and loved Rev. William R. Boland. Suddenly word came through of his transfer. In a matter of days Rev. Boland was to move to new work.

One special tribute was a gold watch.

The watch came as a spontaneous expression of the love one particular group felt so deeply for this fine Christian man.

Rev. Boland was a frequent visitor to the Dixiana Restaurant. With a twinkle in his eye, he would tell of the antics of the early morning gathering of men at the round table where high conversation and sometimes pranks are the order of the day. One morning they got the Reverend! They took maple syrup and smeared it on the cream picture handle. The Rev. used the cream in his coffee, transferring the goo from pitcher to cup handle to spoon to fork, all the while wiping his hand, trying to figure out where all this mess was coming from. The practical jokers all had a good laugh but no one laughed louder than did the Reverend. The hilarity was only one form of deep comradeship felt for Rev. Boland.

When his friends heard he was being transferred a Glades jar was set up at the Dixiana labeled simply, "For Rev. Boland's Soomoon there was about $50 in the jar."

The owners of the Golden Charm Jewelry added to the total and selected a gold watch which was inscribed, "From your friends at the Dixiana."

The community of friends of Rev. Boland in Belle Glade is large. It was an honor to have such a man in our community.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR—EDUCATION

Do you suppose industry will be highly concerned? Industry recognizes sanctions for that it is worth, for they deal with labor leaders and strikes and black mail on a continuing basis. Or will industry be more concerned with the tax structure? For the first time in the decade or so that I have owned my home, I have had to borrow money with which to pay my taxes and I was one of hundreds who had to do so. Why? So that wall to wall carpeted flooring might be laid in a new school. Would one could take the time from earning a living to pay the taxes to ferret out the other absurdities of the educational budget. Such goodies as paid uniforms for bus drivers;

my, this is something I must ask of my employer, (budget suggestion was the same for

UNHARMED BY SCHOOL SANCTIONS.

The Oklahoma Educational Association in May 1965, set up relocation centers to give information concerning jobs in 36 states, salaries higher than did Oklahoma. So that happened?

In June after 1 month from the start of sanctions, 3 of the 5 centers were closed for lack of business. By August all 5 were closed.

So the FEA has imposed sanctions. SO WHAT? Do you suppose those so called educators and I use the term with fear and trepidation, who enjoy the God given attributes of sunshine, the weather they enjoyed by those fortunate enough to live in Florida and which thousands pay millions to enjoy but for a short time will leave? If they do their week ends will not be spent on the sea shore, lakes or golf courses, their wardrobe will not be cottons and sport tops, but woollies and furs. Their clothing, heating of homes for five months of their nine month labors alone represents a decrease in their income. Those few who may leave, may we say bless you. We'd be better off without these malcontents.

And getting down to the field of education. How many truly dedicated teachers do you know in our own school system, those who have gone into this field for the love of children and the desire to teach and add direction to their lives? FEW! FEW! Why are they in the teaching field now? Can you think of any other field where upon signing that FIRST contract there is a LIFE secure threatened only by moral turpitude?

How many of them if they had to face the cold realities of the work-day world of competition could make a good living? Competition, that is the key, where only the deserving receive added compensation, not automatic raises those not only with the required educational backgrounds, but those with understanding and ability to produce in the educational field.

And that was Oklahoma, not Florida the Sunshine State.

Let the FEA declare SANCTIONS. Let FULTON'S, let WOLF, let FLORIDA WILLIE, let AFFECTED BUT Little if at all.

Uncle Dan

Uncle Dan from Doolie Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

The fellows at the country store Saturday night was discussing the 1968 election of the fellows, special Ed Doolittle and Clem Webster, got started on these matters well in advance.

Ed said the nearer we get to 1968 and the elections the louder some of them politicians, Democrat and Republican, was talking and taking credit for what they was doing for the pore folks and the working man.

Zeke Grubb said, as a rule, he had always noted that when what was talking the loudest was doing the least. He said when he was a boy more'n 50 year ago his Pa told him a story about folks taking public credit for things.

He said they was a bullfrog living in a lake up in the Far North where a couple of wild geese was spending the summer.

The bullfrog and the geese got to be good friends and when cold weather set in and the geese was getting ready to fly South, the bullfrog was mighty sad. But, final, he got a smart idea. He figured out how he could go South with the geese. He got a long rope, tied one end to one geese and the other end to the leg of the other geese.

Then the bullfrog clamped his jaws on the middle of the rope and the two geese took off for warmer climate, carrying the bullfrog with them.

All was going good for about half the journey. But, once, when the geese was flying pretty low, a farmer, looking up, was overcome with praise for such a original idea.

"Who thought that up?" he yelled to the bullfrog and the geese.

"I did," said the bullfrog. But when he opened his mouth to take credit, he lost his hold on the rope, fell to the ground, and his geese friends left him behind.

Zeke allowed as how it was a simple little story, but he had recollected about it since he was a boy.

And I'll have to say this about Zeke, Mister Editor, he's got a heap of faults but bragging and taking credit for things ain't one of them. I reckon it's on account of that story his Pa told him about the bullfrog and the wild geese.

Ed was of the opinion that if you booled everything down to the bottom of the barrel, it was the taxpayers and nobody else that had ought to get credit for whatever the Government was doing to help anybody, rich or pore.

Even Clem Webster of the Great Society was agreed with this and all the fellows said they just aimed to tune them credit grabbers out from now on.

Yours truly
Uncle Dan

A TEACHERA DILEMMA!

But, it is not only the teachers who face this problem, but all who live on a fixed income scale, civil service employees those on social security etc. This is a common ill. It seems that only private industry pay scale in a capitalist society can keep up with the cost of living. The government controlled paycheck never has, and probably never will be able to keep up with the times as far as cost of living fluctuation go. Oh, by the way, it is said again and again, that a teacher is almost forced into moonlighting. This is one of the strong arguments for better paid teachers. It is perhaps interesting to note that a recent U. S. Department of Labor report revealed that one out of every 20 American workers has a second job. Government employees — particularly postal workers — lead the field in "moonlighting" with workers in agriculture, education, service, construction and transportation also high on the list. This might indicate a second factor, time available, also plays an important part in whether a persons moonlights or not.

SENSING THE NEWS

By Thurman Sensing

EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

Southern States Industrial Council

SWIMMING IN RED INK

When 1967 began, economists thought the national economic situation had a dangerous pallor. Now the pallor has deepened, and the patient seems in real trouble. Unless the right medicine is given, the United States could face terrible economic illness in the next fiscal year — the worst case of "deficititis" since the end of World War II.

The calculations of the President Lyndon Johnson's estimate of an $8 billion deficit in the fiscal year commencing July 1. In recent days however, Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler gave a $11 billion forecast for the deficit when he asked Congress to hike the debt ceiling to $165 billion.

Mr. Fowler's forecast is based on the assumption that business activity will accelerate rapidly and that the Congress will approve the six per cent tax surcharge sought by the President.

The calculations of the Secretary of the Treasury could prove to be overly optimistic. Some economic observers are of the view that the deficit could pass the $20 billion mark. If this stupendous deficit develops, the American people will really feel its impact in terms of runaway inflation, tight money, whopping taxes, and, in all likelihood, unrelenting price and wage controls.

"Doves" in the country are quick to blame the war in Vietnam for the deficit. Certainly, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara made poor calculations as to the cost of the war. He grossly underestimated the expenditures required — hardly the kind of performance one expects of an official described as a human computer. But defense spending is not the only factor.

After all, expenditures for national defense are necessary expenditures for the safety and survival of the American people. Americans are ready to double defense spending if the security of the Republic is at stake.

The fact is that in recent years non-defense spending has climbed faster than defense spending. Six years ago spending on defense amounted to $44.7 billion. In the current fiscal year, defense spending totals $68.7 billion, or an increase of $4.4 percent.

But consider the other side of the picture. In 1961, non-defense spending was $36.8 billion. Today, it totals $58.7 billion, or a rise of 59 percent.

In May, moreover, President Johnson pledged to carry on the Great Society's lavish "programs and to augment them. He refused to cut back on the wasteful War on Poverty, which hasn't helped the poor. By promoting the Great Society at this time, he apparently hopes to regain favor with radical groups such as Americans for Democratic Action, which have condemned the effort in Vietnam.

Mr. Johnson refuses to make a gun or butter choice. He intends to buy the guns, but he also intends to give away a lot of the highest grade butter in the form of welfare subsidies of one kind or another. He gives "rental" and "headstart" programs high priority, despite the pressing need for cutbacks in this area in order to assure adequate funds for defense and stability in the national economy. The Office of Economic Opportunity is screaming for more money to spend in the nation's big cities this summer — a form of federal tribute designed to appease protest groups. Unquestionably, the American economy is very strong and sound. The U. S. potential for strengthening free enterprise is a modern miracle. New ideas and hard work by skilled managers and employees result in new processes, new services and new goods. But even the strongest economy cannot withstand irresponsible spending.

If war imposes a strain, then it is essential to remove other strains — such as the federal government's commitment to welfareism.

If President Johnson refuses to acknowledge this economic fact of life, he will have the American people swimming in red ink by the time he ends his term in office. Overexpending on welfareism is what has wrecked Britain. The U. S. should take note of this, but he also intends to give away a lot of the highest grade butter in the form of welfare subsidies of one kind or another. He gives "rental" and programs and to augment them. He refused to cut back on the wasteful War on Poverty, which hasn't helped the poor. A farewell party for Rev. W. R. Boland and Mrs. Boland was given at Jameson Hall of Community Methodist Church last Wednesday night. Rev. Boland was transferred to serve at the Methodist Church in Arcadia, after being pastor here for 5 years.

On hearing that he was leaving Belle Glade, Geneva Cross, employee, put Rev. Boland's name on a jar and in a short time it was filled with $50. 36 from Belle Glade Will Attend Witness Convention in WPB

One of the largest conventions in the history of West Palm Beach is scheduled July 6-9 when over 6,500 Jehovah's Witnesses meet for a four day district convention.

The Witnesses last met in West Palm Beach in 1962. At that time, 5,000 delegates assembled at the Jai Alai Fronton.

FLORIDA GARDENING

Bromeliads Easy to Grow in Florida

BY DR. T. J. SHEEHAN

Few people realize it but spanish moss, so familiar to the Florida scene, is a full sister to the pineapple, which is also grown here in the Sunshine State.

Both are members of a family of plants called bromeliads (pronounced bro-mil-ee-ads). Few families in the plant kingdom surpass bromeliads in variation of size, shape and foliage color.

They are adapted to growing conditions found in the normal home and require little care. These two characteristics make them excellent house plants.

Bromeliads are members of the pineapple family, native to the American Tropics. They are air plants and, in natural situations, grow on trees by attaching special root structures to the bark covering host tree branches and trunk. Unlike mistletoe and other parasitic plants, however, they do not invade the deeper tissues of the tree.

Bromeliads are sometimes cultivated by attaching to larger plants or fibrous stumps to simulate a natural display. Or, they may be planted in containers or in ground beds supported by soil mixtures around the roots.

Leaves may be green, gray or maroon, spotted or striped.

Fig. 1—Variations in bromeliads. 1. Tillandsia usneoides (x 1/3); 2. Tillandsia usneoides (x 1/2); 3. Aschmea Foster's Favorite (x 1/4); 4. Billerbergia brasiliensis (x 1/4); 5. and Ananas comosus—Pineapple (x 1/6).

They range from grass-like and less than two inches long to broad and several feet long.

Bromeliads may be propagated by offsets, but since only a limited number are produced on most species, most are propagated from seed.

Seeds are sown on the surface of finely screened soil or sphagnum moss. If soil is used, it should contain 50 to 75 percent organic matter. The flat should be covered with glass to protect seeds and maintain high humidity.

Transplanting can be directly to individual pots when plants are about two inches tall, or to "community pots" as soon as they can be handled. Using the latter method the seedlings generally develop a little faster than when left in the original seed flats.

Most bromeliads grow best in very porous, organic medium, such as equal parts of peat moss, leaf mold and sand. Chopped osmunds, bark or tree fern fiber may be substituted for peat moss.

For more information on this interesting plant family, Florida Agricultural Extension Service Circular 300 can be obtained from any county Extension office.

175,000 DATSUN (or how a DATSUN gives you a pocketbook a pickup!) A few months ago, a man came into a Datsun dealer and asked his taxes to be adjusted. Casually he mentioned he had 163,000 miles on his 1964 Datsun Pickup. During this time he had put in 4 changes of spark plugs, a new tire now and then and oil changes whenever they seemed to it. The dealer gave him a Datsun a minor tune up and some other services which cost $37.00, and made him park like new. Today that Datsun has 175,000 miles on it and is still going strong! (3 miles or more on request) 6-15-11
